DESCRIPTION

The Symphony House is the 10th and newest boutique assisted living community offering from the AlfredHouse family.

Located in suburban Washington DC, Symphony House integrates mental healthcare with care for cognitive challenges due to ageing such as dementia Parkinson's disease, and Alzheimer's disease.

A multisensory room incorporates light, music, art, aroma, massage and hydrotherapy as tools to promote spiritual and mental well-being that also influence the physical well-being.

As part of a holistic approach to care at the Symphony House, comforting colors and an abundance of natural light and access to the outdoors were considered early in the project as research has shown that nature promotes healing. A palette of greens and soft earth tones were chosen for their timelessness and natural association.
